

My Day at
EDUCARE
California at Silicon Valley

I love Educare!
As soon as my family and I walk in the front door,
someone greets us
with a big smile.

I come in early so I can play with the children's museum exhibits in the main atrium.

My teachers help me explore the world through painting, reading, talking, singing, building towers, and caring for our garden.

My family is happy to see me solve problems, develop fine motor skills, build my language skills, and make friends at Educare and at home.

When my family picks me up after school, we stop in at the family resource center. I get to choose a book from the satellite public library, and my mom reads it to me while my dad talks to a family engagement specialist about parenting classes and resources.

Educare California at Silicon Valley offers:

- A satellite public library where children can build early literacy skills by checking out books and attending story time.
- A satellite children's museum where families can experience fun, interactive learning!
- Policy and advocacy efforts that support early learning and other issues that impact families with children ages 0-5.

Many of our staff members are bilingual in Spanish and Vietnamese, and many services are offered in multiple languages. All services are free.

Educare California at Silicon Valley is a beacon of early learning for Silicon Valley and beyond. We narrow the opportunity gap by providing high-quality early childhood education and supportive resources to low-income children and their parents and caregivers in East San Jose. We nurture children's social-emotional and cognitive skills and overall health and development. We encourage strong family engagement to help give children the best start to life.

Educare is made possible through a collaboration of public and private partnerships. See the full list at educaresv.org
